Spring Filling Of Lakes Now On

Spring filling of all mainstream TVA lakes is underway, TVA said today. Depending somewhat on the weather, eight of the lakes will reach summer levels by about April 15, and the ninth—Kentucky Lake—by about May 1.

After filling, temporary surcharges to strand flotsam for mosquito control will be made to the top of gates elevation in Wilson Lake, and, if streamflows permit, one foot or more above summer levels in Hales Bar, Chickamauga, Watts Bar, and Fort Loudoun lakes. Present indications are that no surcharges will be needed this year in Kentucky, Pickwick, Wheeler, or Gunterville lakes.

After being surcharged, the lakes will be drawn down to summer levels and will remain substantially at this elevation until the time for starting fluctuations and recessions for mosquito control, the purpose of which is to kill mosquito larvae by stranding them on shore or exposing them to natural enemies such as top minnows.

Clearing the 900 acres that will be covered by the reservoir to be created by the Melton Hill Dam on the Clinch River has started near the dam site, TVA said today.

About 50 men now are at work. This number will rise to about 100 this summer when the peak period for this work is reached. Felling trees and clearing out brush is expected to last all summer and possibly into the autumn months.

There is very little merchantable timber in the area; brush and scrub timber will be burned.

Relatively few families live in the area to be cleared. In most cases they will be permitted to remove structures provided that is done by Nov. 30, 1962, the date for surrendering possession of the reservoir land being purchased by TVA.

Partial filling of the reservoir in the summer of 1962 will raise the water level about 20 feet above the Watts Bar minimum pool. Final impoundment of Melton Hill Lake is scheduled to start in the spring of 1963.

Melton Hill Lake will be 44 miles long. Its shoreline will be 144 miles long and the surface area of the lake at full pool elevation will be 5,720 acres.

The latest creel census by TVA and state fisheries biologists indicates an average catch of 2.9 pounds of fish per trip on mainstream lakes, two pounds per trip on tributary lakes, and four pounds per trip on tailwaters, Charles J. Chance, Chief of TVA's Fish and Game Branch, recently told delegates to the Tennessee Conservation League at Cleveland, Tenn.

Cr. Chance said that the estimated annual hook-and-line catch of fish in TVA lakes is somewhere between 11 and 15 million pounds of sport and pan fish.

"By actual census records," he said, "the commercial fish catch is approximately six million pounds a year, bringing the total fish catch to somewhere between 17 and 21 million pounds."

"Some of our most popular fishing waters are the tailwaters below dam sites. Fishermen counts last year ranged from 27,000 below Douglas to 183,500 below Kentucky Dam. By outlying and computing the area in which this fishing is concentrated, we find that some tailwaters support as many as 735 fishing trips per acre per year and produce fish at an average annual rate of 1,152 pounds per acre. While this may be an example of "robbing Peter to pay Paul" in that the waters immediately below obviously supply fish to the tailwaters, nevertheless the fish are readily available to fishermen and this is our primary concern."

"What of the future? According to a U. S. Senate report, the number of fishermen using TVA lakes in 1980 will be 1,455,000 or 2-1/2 times what it was in 1954. The report estimates that by the year 2,000 the number of fishermen will rise to an estimated 1,658,000."

The County ASC office is under the general supervision of an elected committee of three farmers. Members of the committee include H. B. Fulton, Ollie C. Hall, and Osro Butterworth. The office details are in charge of Office Manager, Lowell Palmer.

Organist Will Appear Tomorrow At Fulton Church

Marilyn Mason, the distinguished organist appears in concert at the First Methodist Church in Fulton, Tuesday evening April 4th at 8:00 p. m. Miss Mason, now on the faculty of the University of Michigan (and frequently on the summer-faculty of the Union Theological Seminary of New York City), has studied with such noted persons as the late Palmer Christian, one of the outstanding organists of modern times, with Nadia Boulanger, the famed French teacher of composers, with the artist-organist, Maurice Durufle, and with the great composer, Arnold Shoenberg.

Miss Mason's large repertoire includes works from all periods of organ literature, with extensive emphasis on works of her contemporaries. In fact, it is of considerable interest that many recognized composers of our day have written works for Miss Mason, and have dedicated them to her.

Recently, in Cleveland, Ohio, when a critic heard Miss Mason perform the same program which she will play in Fulton Tuesday night, he was moved to write an article for a national organ magazine about the concert. In it he stated that Miss Mason's concert included some of the most brilliant organ playing ever heard in the city of Cleveland.

Miss Mason's program is as follows: Concerto in F major, Op. No. 5, by George Frederic Handel; Minutiae (1958), commissioned to be written for Miss Mason by Jean Langlais, and dedicated to her; Epilogue for pedal solo by Jean Langlais; Pastorale (1959) by Jean Rogier-Ducasse, a composition of striking beauty, but seldom heard because of its difficulty of execution and requirement for an outstanding instrument; two preludes by Searle Wright; and Grand Chorale by Eugene Gigout.

Miss Mason's concert is being sponsored cooperatively by the West Kentucky chapter of the American Guild of Organists and the First Methodist Church of Fulton, Ky. The program is open to promises to bring some of the most outstanding organ music ever heard in the area of West Kentucky.

Counterfeiter Is Apprehended

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A duplicating firm major printer who told Secret Service agents he printed nearly $63,000 in counterfeit $10 bills by working overtime was held here today on charges of printing and passing counterfeit bills.

George H. Kessler Jr., 34, father of seven children, faces a preliminary hearing Tuesday before U. S. Commissioner Raymond Kirchdorfer.

He was held in jail here in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Kessler told federal agents he made the bogus money in the printing shop where he was employed. He said he used his employer's equipment and supplies, working nights and weekends to turn out the phony bills.

Andrew O'Leary, a Secret Service agent, said the bills were "very good imitations." He said the principal difference from real money was the bills' serial numbers. All of the numbers were the same.

The high tension line was carrying 7,200 volts.

The Chief Executive's first official visit to Europe was announced simultaneously in Paris and Palm Beach as Kennedy prepared to fly back to Washington Tuesday for conferences the remainder of the week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger declined to discuss the possibility that visits to London, Bonn and Rome might be added to the French trip. He said the meeting in Paris was the only item on the Kennedy overseas agenda at present.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is due in Washington in April and was expected to urge Kennedy to include Bonn on his May-June itinerary.

The President's first trip out of the country, according to present plans will be to Ottawa, probably in mid-May, to address the Canadian Parliament. This trip originally had been set for sometime in the first half of June, but is being

The Murray Municipal Housing Commission received a check today for $86,380. This money will be used to purchase the land where the 62 low rental housing units will be constructed.

John Gregory, attorney for the commission will approve the various legal aspects of the purchase before the actual purchase is made. The target date for letting the contract for the housing is June 1, according to L. D. Miller, Executive Director of the commission.

Public Assistance Recipients In County Get $33,000 In March

FRANKFORT — Kentucky's public assistance recipients received a total of $5,107,576 in February, Commissioner of Economic Security Earl V. Powell announced this week.

Of this amount, $33,408 went to Calloway Counties who are on the public assistance rolls. In February 1960, recipients here received $30,815.

Powell said the statewide total for the month represents an increase of $623,168 over the money paid in four counties. In this county, the aged (65 or older) received an average payment of $52.12; the families with one or more dependent children received an average payment of $72.12; the needy blind received an average payment of $54.17; and the permanently and totally disabled received an average payment of $57.33.

Banks Thanked For Mechanical Planter
The Calloway County Soil Conservation District has thanked the Bank of Murray and the Peoples Bank for purchasing a mechanical tree planter for use by the county's farmers.

In a letter to the two banks, Lowell Palmer chairman of the Board of Supervisors, thanked them for their interest in this phase of the county conservation effort.

"Without the interest and support of people like you and the organization which you represent, the county's conservation effort would lose much of its effectiveness," Palmer said.

Touches 7,200 Volt Power Line
COVINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — William Jackson, 51, of Covington, was electrocuted Saturday when he accidentally touched a powerline with his head while repairing a transformer.

An employee of the Union Light, Heat and Power Co., of Covington, was knocked from a ladder to the ground when he was shocked. The ladder was attached to a truck.

The high tension line was carrying 7,200 volts.

President And Mrs. Kennedy Will Visit France In May
By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President Kennedy, accompanied by his wife, will visit France next month at the invitation of President Charles de Gaulle for a three-day visit and discussion of a broad range of advanced because of the visit to France.

Kennedy is expected to leave Washington May 29 for a speaking engagement in Boston. Then he will speak May 30 in New York City to the Eleanor Roosevelt cancer fund dinner, and depart for Paris from New York the next day.

Troubles in Laos and the Congo and Franco-American divergence on other policies led to the negotiations for the Paris invitation to Kennedy. The trip results from extensive discussions involving Kennedy, De Gaulle, French Ambassador Herve Alphand in Washington, U. S. Ambassador James G. G. Thompson in Paris, and Averell Harriman, the President's roving envoy.

Other items on the Kennedy-De Gaulle agenda are expected to be French participation in North Atlantic Treaty Organization activities and French desire to continue nuclear testing.

According to informed sources, Kennedy in his talks with Macmillan and De Gaulle, also wants to convey politely an understanding that Great Britain and France no longer need regard themselves as brokers between the United States and Soviet Russia, Macmillan and De Gaulle both assumed the roles of intermediaries after the death of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles late in the Eisenhower administration.

Kennedy has never met De Gaulle. The President speaks a moderate amount of French, but his wife is fluent in the language.

Only One Pay Raise Was Approved
An error was made in a news story last week of the city council meeting which was held on Thursday evening.

The story said that pay raises were approved for the city judge, the mayor, and the city council. This is incorrect. The only pay raise approved by the council was for the city judge. His salary was increased to $3,000 per year. The Ledger and Times regrets this error.

Combs Majority Is Seen In The 1962 State Body
By JAMES RENNEISEN
United Press International
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Although Gov. Bert T. Combs is assured a firm majority in the state Senate in the 1962 General Assembly, the political forces of the Democratic Party.

In fact, both of the Senate candidates that have no opposition in the primary or general election belong to the Chandler wing of the Democratic Party.

Fred Nichols of Madisonville, who will represent Christian and Hopkins counties in the state Senate, is one of the bright new stars on the political horizon. He defeated Combs-aligned "Rebel" legislator Edgar F. Arnold Jr. for the House in the 1959 primary, and this year no one opposes his Senate candidacy.

The other unopposed Senate candidate is Tom Garrett of Paducah. Garrett has been prominent in Young Democrat Club affairs, especially during the recent Chandler administration.

Senate President pro tem Alvin Kidwell of Sparta, and Sen. H. Stanley Blake of Carlisle, veterans of long service in the upper chamber, both face primary opposition associated with the statewide factional struggle.

Kidwell, an administration adherent, is opposed by former Highway Department Safety Inspector Raymond Refett of Warsaw, who has support from the Chandler group in the 26th District—Boone, Carroll, Gallatin, Henry, Oldham, Owen and Trimble counties.

Kidwell has served in the Senate since 1942 and has survived several close primary races.

Blake, the dean of the state Senate, has served since 1938. The retired farmer and tobacco warehouseman is opposed by Harrison County farmer Wilson Palmer of Cynthiana. Blake generally sided against the administration during the 1960 legislative session.

Other incumbents seeking reelection who have primary opposition include: J. Murray Blue of Providence; Clyde S. Howard of Elizabethtown; Broadus E. Hickerson of Lebanon; Cabell D. Francis of Stanford; and Herbert Driscoll Jr. of Stanton.

Blue was a Combs supporter in the 1960 session but Henry, opponent—Henderson Mayor Hecht S. Hecht—also was lined up with Combs and Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt in the bitter fought 1959 primary campaign.

The winner of the Blue-Lacey contest will have opposition in the general election from George P. Whittington of Henderson, who was the Republican candidate for agriculture commissioner in 1959.

Former Atty. Gen. J. D. Buckman Jr. of Salt River, is challenging Howard, a veteran legislator, for his Senate seat. Howard was elected to the Senate in 1957 after serving eight terms in the House of Representatives.

Hickerson is opposed by former Rep. C. J. Richards of Lebanon, who can be expected to have support from the Chandler faction.

Francis has three Democratic opponents, and the survivor in the primary will then have to face John H. Swope, a Boyle County Republican, in the general election.

Opposing Francis for the nomination are S. C. White of Moreland; Lloyd McBee of Danville; and state Rep. Frank Zeke Dexter, of Danville.

Derrickson, who filled out the term of the late Sen. Cassius M. Clay of Paris, has opposition in the primary from James W. Bean of Winchester.

Former Owensboro Mayor Casper Gardner is the Chandler faction's candidate in the 8th District. He is opposed by former Rep. Robert Reid Sr. of Owensboro; who resigned from the State Board of Education to make the race; and Ney Edwin Jones of Owensboro.

Anderson County Atty. Walter Patrick has administration support in the primary race against Lawrenceburg meat packing firm executive Marvin Edwards in the Anderson.

FARM BUREAU in Action

Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

We Are Headed For Federal Control of Education

The public free school system of this nation is nearer and dearer to the American people than any other unit of government. They have shown more interest in and given more time and money to schools than to any other public activity in existence. And it is fine and right that this should be true, for the school, next to the home, has more to do with the shaping of more lives than any other factor.

Operation of our public school system has always been a job for the community, county and state, but now Uncle Sam proposes to begin forcing the chain of Federal control around our long established school system through the aid-to-education bill to help build schools and pay teachers' salaries. Of course, the would-be-aiders solemnly proclaim that they would not have control over the schools and teachers in any way, but that is ignoring history. At first they supplement, then supplant. It is a well recognized fact that "what Washington subsidizes and pays for, it controls."

The Kentucky Farm Bureau has from the first of its existence worked for better schools and much better paid teachers, but we do not think this is the safe and right way to get it. There are too many dangers involved, because any future session of Congress can change the actions of this one in whatever constitutional manner it may see fit. Some future Congress—not far in the future, either—might provide aid only on condition that federally dictated texts and curriculum be used. Far stranger things have happened.

It does not occur to us that there is either widespread need or desire for Federal aid in Kentucky. The state increased public school support from a little more than $23-million to almost $99-million in the last 10 years, an increase of 330 percent. In 1950-51, Kentucky spent a little over $6-million for capital expenditures for education, while the 1960-61 appropriation earmarked $19-million for public school support. Nationwide school enrollment has jumped 24 percent during the last 10 years; however, local spending by the public has jumped 124 percent during the same period.

If parents of America permit a federalizing of their schools, they will be saying good-bye to their children in the sense that local control over what they are taught, what they think, and what they do will be gone. To us, this is the most dangerous of all federal-aid schemes because it involves the threat of Washington planners for the training of our children.

Our Soil Our Strength

By ROBERT E. BROWN

Soil Conservationist

Soil and water conservation is an important part of the work of Future Farmer of America chapters and their members. Danny Kemp of the Murray College FFA chapter has soil and water conservation in his farming program. His project will be entered in the District FFA contest. Danny and his father J. C. Kemp operate a dairy farm on the Mayfield highway.

The Soil Conservation Service provides the Soil Conservation District with some planting materials each year for observational purposes. This year we have received some memorial rose and trailing raspberry to try on eroding roadbanks or gullied areas. N. A. Young, Hamlin, and Billy Joe Williams, Pottersville, have agreed to try these plants.

We also have some crown vetch, switch grass and daurica lespedeza that will be used on similar sites. Speaking of roadbanks, the next time you drive out the old Murray-Paris road look at the work Danny McClure is doing on roadbanks. The eroding banks are being seeded to fescue and mulched with straw and manure. Mr. McClure is an enthusiastic conservationist. The row crops on his farm are confined to level bottomland and the upland is seeded to a dense cover of grasses and legumes.

SCS agronomist Herb Cary was in Calloway County this week to assist the local office in agronomy problems. Cary discussed wheel-track planting of corn with Carol M. and J. H. Rogers, Elbert Houston and sons, and Euell Smith. These farmers have indicated they would like to try a small acreage of wheel-track planting this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace R. Sears are new residents of the New Concord community. They purchased the Seth Cooper farm in 1959 and have recently moved to the farm from Washington, D.C. where Mr. Sears was in the U.S. Army. Sears has requested assistance from the SCS office in making a conservation plan of his farm.

Max Smotherman, north of Lynn Grove, has been assisted in making a conservation plan of his farm. Pasture seeding and waterway establishment are scheduled for this "You're kidding," exclaimed Mrs. Feyre, 35, when Dr. George Bronos gave her the news. They already have 9-year-old twins among the children.

Flattering New Toppers

New Textured Fabrics Have Look Of Knits

By SUSAN BARDEN

A HAPPY slant on spring hats has been achieved by American hatters' use of recently discovered man-made fibers that have the feel and look of straws and knits.

Chic And Inexpensive

The new fabrics are not only pretty but practical as well. They are very easy to shape and fit and are far less expensive than imported products.

Since the fibers are so pliant, the hats that are made from them are whipped up in a remarkably short time and a minimum of expense by machines.

Many Benefits

The benefits are many. Today, women can have a large military wardrobe for less money than they once paid for an Easter bonnet. And all this without relinquishing top styling and pretty colors.

The silhouettes most popular are the side-profiles that are worn close to the face, reminiscent of the deep cloches of the thirties.

Modified Height

Height is still important, but in the case of rounded crowns it is sometimes modified, as appears in the selections from one manufacturer's collection shown here.

Though white and navy are still favored, these hats come in a choice of twenty colors to match or contrast with spring costumes.

COMFORTABLE TO WEAR and very easy to pack is this knit-look travel hat with its crush crown and slouch brim.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 1 The Stars and Stripes, W. Porcher Miles told the Confederate Provisional Congress at Montgomery, were the "emblem of oppression and tyranny." With Miles and other South Carolinians talking as rambunctiously as that, the voices raised in the South against secession and plunging the Union into war were dimmed out.

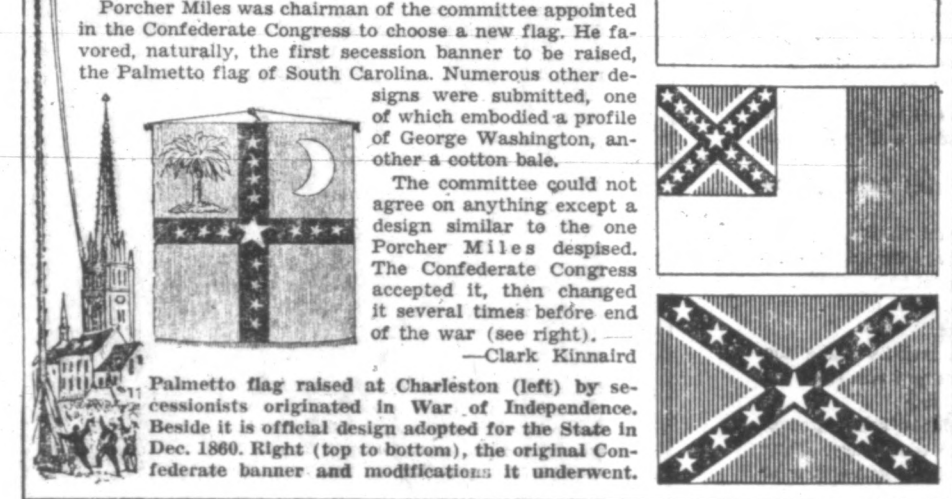

There were thousands located all over the South who opposed taking up arms over the right of States to regulate their internal institutions, such as slavery, without interference by other states or the Federal government. In Georgia, home State of Alex Stephens, Vice President of the Confederacy, the vote in the secession convention was 208 for, 89 against. In Mississippi, whence came Jefferson Davis to the Presidency, the people of Jones county refused secession, declared a free state.

Porcher Miles was chairman of the committee appointed in the Confederate Congress to choose a new flag. He favored, naturally, the first secession banner to be raised, the Palmetto flag of South Carolina. Numerous other designs were submitted, one of which embodied a profile of George Washington, another a cotton bale.

The committee could not agree on anything except a design similar to the one Porcher Miles despised. The Confederate Congress accepted it, then changed it several times before end of the war (see right).

—Clark Kinnaird

Do You Want To Read Faster? Here's How To Do So

SPEED-READING MACHINES—Mrs. J. R. Armbruster of Murray is shown testing her speed-reading skills by using an SRA pacer. John O. Peterson of Louisville is using a film-strip projector; an opaque overhead projector is shown in the background.

"One of the main drawbacks in our educational development today is lack of motivation," stated Dr. Robert F. Alsop, of the MSC educational department. "Students don't know what they want or where they're going; consequently they don't know when they get there," he explained.

Another main obstacle to student learning is the low level of comprehension.

Dr. Alsop has a four-step technique that can help any student increase his reading comprehension:

1. Vision check.
2. Vocabulary development. This step includes the study of Latin and Greek root words and their prefixes.
3. Spelling by syllables. This step includes the four principles of syllabification:
 - (a) Vowel-consonant combination.
 - (b) Vowel-consonant-vowel combination.
 - (c) Consonant-vowel-consonant combination.
 - (d) Prefixes and suffixes.

By using these few basic steps and by using the recommended methods of study, a student can raise his grade from C to B to A, Dr. Alsop said.

Another important aid to a student's self-improvement process is frequent use of the dictionary. Many students, as Dr. Alsop pointed out, don't know how to pronounce a word after they look it up.

Dr. Alsop also conducts a diagnostic clinic for education majors. He fondly calls this phase his "finishing school in reading."

The main difficulty that he has found in most remedial-reading problems are:

1. Vision (lateral and vertical balance).
2. Over-dependence on context clues.

6. Lack of direction or motivation.

Speed-reading seems to be a term that's sweeping the country. Schools and colleges across the United States are developing speed-reading clinics.

In fact, this is considered such an important part of most schools that Syracuse University, Purdue and the University of Florida require a knowledge of speed-reading and how to study as a part of the freshman-orientation study.

By studying the basic speed-reading methods, one can increase his reading comprehension 50 per cent with little difficulty, and sometimes, with diligent work, 100 per cent.

One of the main techniques used in speed reading is to locate the main idea of the article or chapter. Then change the topics and sub-topics to questions. The average man reads at 350 words per minute, or on an eighth-grade level.

MSC is certainly not lagging behind in this vital program. Several machines are used here in this type of work:

1. Telebinocular for screening vision.
2. Audiometer for screening hearing.
3. SRA pacer for speed reading.
4. Reading-rate controller (motivational device).
5. Overhead projector for teaching word recognition and vocabulary.

Dr. Alsop received his bachelor's degree at Southern Illinois State College and his master's and doctor's degree at the University of Missouri.

Any student who is having reading difficulties can usually be helped. Dr. Alsop has helped numerous students whose problems range from minor to critical ones.

If you feel that you are not reading at the normal speed or are not comprehending what you read, apply the principles listed. If these don't help improve your reading skills, arrange for a conference with "MSC's speed-reading man."

DEFENSE UNDERWAY—Joseph A. Peel Jr., 37, former West Palm Beach, Fla., city judge, and his wife are shown in court. He is on trial in the 1955 murder of Judge C. E. Chillingworth and Chillingworth's wife to prevent, says the prosecution, Peel's exposure in the moonshine and numbers racket.

erson-Franklin-Scott-Shelby Senate District.

J. Sam Sternberg, long a Chandler ally, opposes trucking firm executive Spencer Cobb in Chandler's home Senate district. Both candidates are from Nicholasville.

There are six candidates — Five Democrats and a Republican — seeking the Senate seat vacated by Sen. Charles H. Davis of Jackson. Mrs. Curtis K. Stacy, wife of a West Liberty banker who formerly served as senator, is opposed in the Democratic Primary by John Raymond Turner, son of Brethitt Circuit Judge Ernie Turner; Walter Strong of Beattyville; and Winfred Howard and Clarence Black, both of West Liberty.

The winner of this donnybrook will then run against Republican Newton Blanton of Maggard in the general election.

Two primary races filled with legislative veterans have developed in the Greenup - Lewis - Carter - Elliott District.

Former state Commissioner of Highways Bert Kiser of Olive Hill probably will have the Chandler blessing in the Democratic primary against former state Rep. E. R. Hilton of Raceland.

In the Republican Primary, the dean of the House — Hobart Rayburn of Vanceburg — is opposed by state Rep. Robert Qualls of Olive Hill, and Roy Jack Chapman of Quincy.

Other Republican Senate races include: Paul L. Fuqua of Hardinsburg, against Paul C. Butler of Harrodsburg, in the 10th District; and state Rep. Wendell Hardwick of Betsey, against Dr. William C. Mann of Marrowbone, and Mrs. Jo Warinner of Albany, in the 16th District.

Mrs. Warinner is the widow of Sen. Ed P. Warinner.

MISSILE A-11T—Patricia Morelli, 13, looks out from the nose cone of a 30-foot Polaris missile model after it arrived, at her request, for exhibition at the Cathedral High School Science Fair in Portland, Me. Miss Morelli wrote several manufacturers for models and the same Polaris that was used in President Kennedy's inaugural parade was sent by Sperry Gyroscope Company.
